Der Sound flirrender Kurzwellen-Empfänger, des Leslie-Kabinetts und anderer analoger Schätze erwartet uns in 1605munros Lunapark (Avachorda). Zwischen Notebook-Avantgardismus – Clicks & Cuts – und der Coolness von Jazzplatten brennt da ein Feuer, das von Andrés Jankowskis Leidenschaft für originale Klangerzeuger („Rhodeo“) und musikalische Interaktion gespeist wird: Takeshi Nishimoto (Gitarre), Daniel Erismann (Trompete), Claudio Milano (Gesang), Tetsuya Hori (präparierte Zigarrenkiste) und andere bilden auf Lunapark ein virtuelles Ensemble der menschlichen Eigenheiten, das in unterschiedlichen Geschwindigkeiten agiert. Hier wird großer Wert auf die kleinen, entscheidenden Sound-Details gelegt. □

GROOVE Magazine

Andrés Jankowski's music runs the full range of human idiosyncracies, he packs a remarkable density of elements into each moment. Repeated listening reveals nuance after subtlety, layer after level. His short gems manifest a richness of orchestration, humor, and heart that engages the attention and invites continued scrutiny.

Titus Levi in KEYBOARD – Discoveries

Andrés pendelt zwischen den Polen Buenos Aires und Berlin, zwischen Klanginstallationen und Pop, Experimenten und neuen Aufgaben – mit offenen Augen, viel Power und der nötigen Souveränität.

Cristina Moles Kaupp - Tip Magazin - Berlin on Loophole

« METALAMBIENTE escapes the coldness of Electronica with a touch of blood »

Rolling Stone Latin-American Edition

«Not the everyday predictable Easy-Listening-Ambient recorda tone Kaleidoscope with much to be discovered »

« Keine der vorhersehbar Easy-Listening-Ambient-Platten, und gerade daher anregend hörbar. Ein Facettenreiches Klang-Kaleidoskop, bei dem es viel zu entdecken gibt. »

Tip Magazin – Berlin

«Jankowski & Nuñez have been at this CD for a while, but have produced one of the most diverse releases I've heard. This CD has been in constant rotation in my stereo ever since, my only regret is that I didn't buy 2 copies!!»

Elephant Talk on Metalambiente

«Jankowski y Nuñez son dos músicos con los pies aferrados en los 90, dos connoisseurs que tornan sus herramientas pop en un entramado ambiental con transistores sanguíneos.»

Los Irroquptibles – Buenos Aires

«Es muy difícil hablar sobre este disco. Es tanta la riqueza que contiene que no puedo destacar un tema sobre otro. Es como ir a un festival de cine y ver 13 cortos magníficos, uno detrás del otro y cada uno de ellos totalmente distinto del anterior. Una Joya de puro sonido "Santos Luminosos"»

Revista Mellotron (Spain)

1605MUNRO to laptopowy projekt Andresa Jankowskiego, artyści urodzonego w Buenos Aires, żyjącego i pracującego aktualnie w Berlinie. Jankowski jest znany jako muzyk, inżynier dźwięku, producent, kompozytor muzyki filmowej i projektant instalacji multimedialnych.

WarszawaOnline (Poland)

La música de este CD progresa y da vueltas en la cabeza del oyente con sonidos que van desde los climas tranquilos hasta guitarras distorsionadas alejadas. Es un viaje por distintos estados de la música con ejemplos exquisitos como "Figuerola '69" o "Berlin, Maybe Monday" donde ambos músicos aportan más que virtuosismo, creatividad. Y nunca viene mal tener un oasis como este.

Daniel Amiano – Diario La Nacion, (Argentina) on Leuchtende Heilige

La importancia de esta obra radica en su concepto. Los viajes y la experiencia han madurado ricas sonoridades que solicitan una adecuada audición nocturna; pocos discos podrían ser calificados como "Pop moroso y artesanal", y es probable que a Leuchtende Heilige le corresponda tamaño título.

Jorge Luis Fernandez – Esculpiendo Milagros, on Leuchtende Heilige
